Submitting a new patch.

Previous patch breaks subtask indentation. I fixed CSS to cope with it.

I confirmed that the patch works with current trunk(r13547).

I hope that this patch is included in Redmine 3.0.0.

The patch can't be committed as is. It triggers one query per issue on the issue list and an additional for each issue link in formatted text. Here is a patch that preloads the attachment counts for the issue list.

Still, this adds some more overhead to the issue list and I'd like to get more feedback from users before adding it to the core. I personally don't feel much the need for it.

Could we have a checkbox option to show attachments icon like we have to show descriptions?

You can display "Files" column in the issues list since Redmine 3.4.0 (#25515).

Since you can see if there are attachments by displaying the Files column, I think it is no longer necessary to show an attachments icon.
