Description
Wiki diff page generates the following HTML:
<pre>&lt;div class="text-diff"&gt; ... &lt;br /&gt;         sleep 10 &lt;br /&gt;         end ... &lt;/div&gt;</pre>
From: http://www.redmine.org/projects/redmine/wiki/HowTo_run_Redmine_as_a_Windows_service_%28win32-service_+_taskill_approach%29/diff?version=3&amp;version_from=2&amp;commit=View+differences
And here is div.text-diff style:
From: source:tags/2.0.3/public/stylesheets/application.css#L777
Spaces in Wiki page are ignored because the HTML doesn't use <pre> tag and the CSS also doesn't use white-space: pre.

Here is a patch that removes simple_format_without_paragraph and surrounds @diff.to_html with <pre class="text-diff"> instead of .

I think it would be better to add white-space: pre-wrap; to text-diff class.

Please see the following screenshots. Without white-space: pre-wrap;, you cannot see the whole content of long lines.

Abstract

The Hypertext Transfer Protocol (HTTP) is a stateless application-level protocol for distributed, collaborative, hypertext information systems. This document provides an overview of HTTP architecture and its associated terminology, defines the "http" and "https" Uniform Resource Identifier (URI) schemes, defines the HTTP/1.1 message syntax and parsing requirements, and describes related security concerns for implementations.
