What exactly is this supposed to do? The image is not clear what the purpose is. See #1112 for related reminder email when issues come due. Perhaps this solves your problem?

Remember, there's always the possibility to just add a comment to the issue, which will send out an email to anyone associated with the issue.

If I understand correctly, this is to set up the reminder "Now" to the respective authors (or CC list) about specific issues in the list.

Basically, as per current convention, whenever Issue state,note changes - the specific watchers are sent an email by default. Typically a project manager would want the Assignee's (or authors) to "Notify Something" (now) about this issue - not based on an automatic workflow.

BTW: you may treat this as work around, but a very simple thing you can do is follows:

- Go to issues page > Right click to "Bulk Edit" to select issue > and add a simple note " Project manager's reminder" - this of course will update the issue - but mail will go to all concerned!

Of course, there are host of ways, features and plugins to see how multiple watchers can be added to specific issues.
