Description This is only last issue we miss so much in redmine! We need really the same time report (which is great) as for single project, but we need to list all projects. We need this for invoicing our clients, paying to our developers, tracking overall spent time of our developers, etc. Unfortunately we're not ruby developers, so now we're using some terrible PHP-hack... Please save our souls! Case of Pilsner Urquell Beer to the man who will save us!!!

+1 I've been thinking about porting my Timesheet plugin to the Redmine core. The Time Tracking has really improved in the core over the past few months and I find myself using my plugin less and less. I already have the code to query the TimeLog model, we will just need to hook it upto the UI.
