Description

In r11723 for #13486 the height of "Commits per author" graph is made flexible. This is done by taking a base height for each author (15) and multiplying that with the number of authors.

The current base height value seems to be a bit on the low side which makes the graph pretty difficult to read. I'll add some examples further on.

I tried several values and came to the conclusion that a value of 30¹ is working best for me. What do you think?
