| Hi, I'm currently in the process of migrating from trac to redmine, and I'm missing some very useful features that exists in trac repo viewer: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• view diff in change log, i.e. when clicking on a changed log, it should be possible to view the diff on the same screen (instead of clicking again, and back to change log).• missing link from activity log directly to latest version (one can only see the diff log, in order to see the file you have to go to the repo path and click view inside the file).• be able to toggle and ignore: Blank lines, Case changes, White space changes• "remember" use preference for side by side or inline diff.• be able to click "next" change set from the diff screen (best if diff could be merged with revision page (i.e. after clicking activity --> revision # --> show log + diff at the same page)• view files that have changed in the activity log | |
| Thanks a lot for a great product. | |

Hi Ohad,

- I don't want "view diff in change log" by default, because diffing is an intensive process that I don't want to trigger unless required.
- For "missing link from activity log", there are some patches around for that. I also think they could be applied safely, although there maybe are good reason not to do so.

Is there a way to do a whole directoy diff?, it would be great to view changes between branches.
