Description

It would be a big plus for projects who use a (semi-)public Redmine-instance for the forums, if forum attachments (forum files) could be deleted just in the same way as possible with the wiki attachments (wiki files)...

Maybe it's also a good thing to rename all actual attachments (issues, wiki, forums) which are now confusingly named as "Files" to "Attachments"? This way it would more distinctive from the "Files" module of Redmin.

I spent some time searching the issues but I couldn't find an existing one for this.

Closed the issue since this is implemented, by a refactoring of attachment-handling which resulted in the plugin `acts_as_attachable`, in r2116.

P.S.: I've set the Target version to 0.9 since the commit hasn't (and imho shouldn't) been merged into the 0.8-stable-branch ( source:/branches/0.8-stable). Please correct me if I'm wrong... :)
