Description

Hi,

After migrating from Redmine 1.2.1 to 3.0.1, the Issues > Summary > Reports details page does not have the same behaviour for the table header overflow.

We use around 20 "Issues statuses" in our Redmine instance and with this latest Redmine version, headers overlap to fit in the window size which make them unreable (see attached screenshots).
This change might have been done before the Redmine 3.0.1 release but I did not find the entry about it in Changelogs.

Thanks,
Antoine

I confirmed this behavior. It is caused by

table.issue-report {table-layout:fixed;}

source:trunk/public/stylesheets/application.css@14155#L173
If I change it to table-layout:auto . I can see all the content.
You can fixed this by creating a custom theme to change this style. Just while waiting for a patch.

Thank you for the workaround.

But changing table-layout property from fixed to auto causes other problem. Please see the screenshots blow. The right end of the table is not displayed (actually there are columns "status nine", "Open", "Closed", "Total"). And columns are not aligned in issues summary page.

I think adding white-space: nowrap to th elements is better solution.
