Description

r15667 - We can see "Issues visibility" and "Time logs visibility":

The screenshot shows the Redmine interface for creating a new role. The 'Issues visibility' dropdown is set to 'All non private issues' and 'Time logs visibility' is set to 'All time entries'. The 'Users visibility' is set to 'All active users'. The 'Copy workflow from' dropdown is empty. The right sidebar shows the 'Administration' menu with 'Roles and permissions' selected.

r15668 - "Issues visibility" and "Time logs visibility" are invisible:

The screenshot shows the Redmine interface for creating a new role. The 'Issues visibility' and 'Time logs visibility' fields are invisible. The 'Users visibility' is set to 'All active users'. "Issues visibility" and "Time logs visibility" are invisible

If you check "View issues" permission, "Issues visibility" should show up. The same for time logs.
Can you check this?

#4 - 2016-08-30 23:46 - Jean-Philippe Lang

the form is expected to be filled with "Non member" role permissions by default. But it seems does not to be working on r15668 and later.

Fixed in r15764.
