change Russian translation for "Estimated time" (#26180)

History

#1 - 2017-06-17 03:25 - Go MAEDA

Although I don't understand Russian language, it seems that the proposed translation "Общая оценка трудозатрат" is not inconsistent with the current translation for field_estimated_hours (" Оценка трудозатрат").

According to Google translation, "Оценка трудозатрат" and "Общая оценка трудозатрат" means "Evaluation of labor costs" and "Total labor cost estimate".

Reviews by Russian speakers welcome.

#2 - 2017-06-17 12:27 - Vasili Korol

for field_estimated_hours : "Оценка трудозатрат"="Labor cost estimate" for field_total_estimated_hours : "Общая оценка трудозатрат"="Total labor cost estimate"

The difference is only in the word "total".

But i feel that the current translation is a bit inaccurate. I would rather call it "Оценка временных затрат" and "Общая оценка временных затрат". It's quite long, but is translated to the correct ".. time estimate" instead of confusing "labor cost".

Would be nice to hear opinion of other Russian speakers.

I agree with previous speaker. Current translation is a bit inaccurate. I suggest using the following option "Оценка временных затрат". This option is not so confusing.

Could you give us your "for field_estimated_hours" and "for field_total_estimated_hours"?

As Vasili Korol said: "Оценка временных затрат" and "Общая оценка временных затрат".

Totally disagree.
It is a broadly applicable term with a very specific meaning, and this field is about it.
In "Оценка временных затрат" word "time" is ambiguous - there are real/calendar time and work time.
"Трудозатраты" - it's work time only. Real/calendar time should be "date-time", but not "HH:MM".
