The patch looks a bit odd in my case, because it sets the font size only for the buttons but not for the other input fields.
I think it would be better to set the font-size either for all input fields or for none.
Adding a transition to the hover effect would be a nice icing on the cake. :-)

My bad, sorry for adding the font-size rule.
I've updated the patch:
- removed the font-size rule
- included a basic transition

Bernhard, please feel free to propose improvements to my patch.

I think it is a good idea to add the font-size to all input elements and remove the hardcoded height added by my patches, but I'll try to do it in the near future.

Thank you for the nice improvement. For me, the background color #ddd is a bit too dark. What do you think if the color is changed to #e4e4e4? This is the same color with the border color of some objects such as div.box, table.list, and fieldset.

I'm ok with any option.

I took the '#ddd' from pagination buttons, maybe we should merge the styles in another ticket.

Thank you for the clarification. Knowing the reason, I think #ddd is appropriate now.
