Description
Allow the user to upload a file as part of a comment when changing status.
Also add the fact a file was uploaded to the history of the issue so that if there are (for example) multiple screenshots the viewer will know which screenshot was added with which comment.

Another good idea. Done and committed.
You can now upload files on "Change status".
All file uploads and deletions are now visible in the issue history.

Btw, for users who are not allowed to change issue status, i should also propose to add a note and some files in one action. For now, they can only do this with separate actions: "Add a note" and "Add files".
