Description

This patch adds a link to the projects administration page (/admin/projects) on the projects page in order to improve usability.

The current projects page has "New project" button, but does not have any other administrative buttons such as Archive and Copy. When I want to do such tasks, I often open the projects page by mistake. I think it is quite natural for admins to think that they can archive or copy projects on the page named "Projects".

Adding a link to the projects administration page can help them. Even if they open Projects instead of Administration by mistake, the link makes easy to go to projects administration page.

Cool. That should clear things up a bit. I cought myself wandering in 'wrong' projects screen many times. That link should speed things up.
