Maybe Configuration > Settings > Emails (or whatever the tab is labelled in english) is what you are looking for? Members of a project should get mails for news in this project if you check the box for the news notification.

well, actually would be it, if it works... unfortunately it seems not.

It could be also improved by sending notifications "on demand" (normally turned off, but send "just for this one") and while news is being edited.

Felix is right, the feature exists.

If it doesn't work, please fill a defect report with the information that will let me fix the bug.

I think this is related to #4700. Nobody gets an email if he configured in his settings that he wants to be emailed only on things he's involved in.

Close this since #4700 exists.
