Description
A client brought this bug to my attention. On the global issues list: <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Select two issues on different projects- Right click to trigger the context menu- Some options with a submenu are enabled but the selections are not (Priority, % Done). e.g. It shows you can change Priority but doesn't present any values you can select.

find attached a patch which take into account rights of each project for evaluate the access to actions in menus.

The rule is an AND operation between the rights in each project. If one is false, the entire action is set to false.

I was impatient to post my modifications

But, if the idea of correction was correct my code contained errors

Here a better patch.

I think that the correct statement is :

edit = edit && expression

and not edit &= expression

Same here at work on 1.0.0(RC), it's really annoying and should be fixed for 1.0.1 in my opinion. Alain: I'll take a look at your patch.

#6 - 2010-09-03 23:44 - Jean-Baptiste Barth

- Resolution set to Fixed

Alain: your patch is a first step to handle cross-projects issues in context menu, which is a much larger issue (see #5332).

I prefer just hiding those items for the moment, which solves the exact issue Eric reported. It's committed in r4059. We may work on bulk edit later, in #5332.

#7 - 2010-09-20 05:51 - Eric Davis

- Status changed from Resolved to Closed

Merged into 1.0-stable for release in 1.0.2
