Description Hi, the right-click context menu for issues is amazing. It not only works on the issue tab, but also for the subtasks section included on each created issue. I'd like this feature could also be enabled for the related issues section, just below the "subtasks" section.

Just a UI question for history : isn't it a bit hazardous to let the "Delete" choice in the contextual menu, can't it taken as a "Delete relationship" choice instead ?

Same question applies to subtask list ; #7900 could make it less hazardous.

Hi Etienne,

you are right, this can be a little confused to the user. He may not be able to differentiate the "delete issue" and "delete relationship" through the context menu.

Hi,

I added another issue, #8155, which I believe is somewhat related to this issue due to the context menu.

I've changed the icon for deleting the relation to a more specific one. Plus, the confirmation message when clicking the delete link on the context menu is quite explicit: "Are you sure you want to delete the selected issue(s)?"

Yes, and, moreover, casual user don't have access to the "delete" function, so we're safe.
