Description The text editor for project overview don't provide many macros and wiki formattings. Why isn't this editor standard wiki site text editor. Would provide same as it plus all wiki functionaility (e.g macros)

he same bug exists for redmine overview text input (reachable via administration)

Not a bug since these locations have never been intended to rich editor'ed that way.

That said, I have some memories of similar issues, but I can't find them any more...

Correct that sentence to "its a freature, not a bug" as means this ticket also.

As reported by Ivan Cenov in #202#note-11, it looks like as if this has been implemented.

I've did a quick test on *.m.redmine.org (running Redmine 2.2.x) and both the "Welcome text" (as displayed on the "Home" view) as well as the "Description" (as displayed on the "Project Overview" view) now accept full textile syntax (including macro's).

Please report back about whether or not the feature has indeed been implemented.
