Redmine - Feature #946

Configurable Per-Project Text on New Issue Screen

2008-03-28 14:12 - John Goerzen

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Status: | New | Start date: | 2008-03-28 |
| Priority: | Normal | Due date: | |
| Assignee: | | % Done: | 0% |
| Category: | | Estimated time: | 0.00 hour |
| Target version: | | | |
| Resolution: | | | |

Description

It would be useful to have the ability to specify a paragraph or two of text to display at the top of the New Issue screen, configurable per project.

I have been having people use the bug tracking system for things that I do not wish to use it for (support-type questions that should use a forum or mailing list), and I want to be able to put text right there to explain what to use the issue system for.

History

#1 - 2013-03-18 21:11 - Dipan Mehta

+1. This should be per project per Tracker - settable in the Project settings page.

#2 - 2013-04-10 13:55 - Dipan Mehta

This can be a subset of #4015

Also, there is a relation with #2568 which talks about contextual documentation. Don't know which way this issue should be taken up.