Description I know this was a "defect" that was closed over 2 years ago: the fact that the forum is always in chronological order. I have recently starting using Redmine for project managment with a large student class. It has great feedback but the question I get asked over and over is "how do I make the forum so that messages are newest first"? In my very small group its seems like a very popular request so I can imagine it would be a frequently requested feature? Sorry if this is an inappropriate use of the "issues". And thanks for a great product - Josh
