Description

Make it possible to import/export one or more projects from one Redmine to the other. Allow the export with or without tickets, wiki, forums, ...

How:

- add import/export buttons to the project overview
- when exporting: include site wide settings which are referenced in project
- when importing:
  - allow import in existing or new project
  - allow changing project name/id
  - preview what global settings (users, etc) will be changed
  - renumber sequential numbers (like ticket numbers) with following options:
  a) try to keep number, b) add offset, c) add to end of issues

Benefit:

- it would be possible to merge two redmine sites
- it would be easier to split a site in two
- it would be possible to migrate to/from hosting service
- it would be easier to create another 'similar project'
- redmine would be more cloud-ready

I think this is a really important feature too. Can you add it to the roadmap ?
