Description In database user has an ID and login string. I registered at http://www.redmine.org with bad login which I've never used on other pages and sometimes I can't login because I forgot it. I thought that this link is a demo link and created foolish user name. With this login I created some tickets and I want to follow them but with another login. I want to change my login to usual one which I use on another sites. Can you make it possible?
