Description

In database user has an ID and login string.
I registered at http://www.redmine.org with bad login which I've never used on other pages and sometimes I can't login because I forgot it. I thought that this link is a demo link and created foolish user name. With this login I created some tickets and I want to follow them but with another login.
I want to change my login to usual one whitch I use on another sites.
Can you make it possible?
