Description

A user should be able to unsubscribe or request opting out.

A tester put it very well:

> Now we have an interesting problem: if a person registers, how does he unregister? In particular, how do I cancel the access by the network to my personal email. I searched the Redmine site in vain for an answer to this question. To me the right to quit is as important as the right to enter. For any mailing list, "Unsubscribe" is a legal obligation. I suspect that there is no such obligation for a social network.
