Description

In the Redmine administration, in the custom fields customization :
During the edition of an issue custom field, the projects using this custom field should be listed.

This will help to find the projects that are still using old customized fields.

Any reason not to display checkboxes to select projects just like on the tracker form?

#3 - 2012-04-30 11:04 - Jérôme BATAILLE

No reason, our need was just to be able to see in which project was use this type of custom field.
The feature is not fully developed, for example we don't manage at all the other kind of custom fields.

But if this is a blocker, we can try to develop the check boxes to disable the custom field in the selected projects.
