Description This is a more generic approach to what has been asked for in issue #482 . Here each state in the workflow would have a check box named "Default assignment" (when configuring a workflow). If checked then a field named "Default assignee" would allow a user or group to be the default assignee for that issue when it enters that state. This could be set for all projects or for a specific set of projects. Rationale: This would solve the frequent problem of users assigning the task to the wrong user. Thank you for your attention.

Yes you're right, this isn't a duplicate of #482 but it's a duplicate of #3517.
Just see <http://www.redmine.org/issues/3517#note-5> for a proposal to solve this.
