

Redmine - Feature #12010

Subscription 2 Plug-in and a question about posting to blogs via email

2012-10-02 18:38 - Mark Webb

| | | | |
|---|---------|------------------------|-----------|
| Status: | Closed | Start date: | |
| Priority: | Normal | Due date: | |
| Assignee: | | % Done: | 0% |
| Category: | | Estimated time: | 0.00 hour |
| Target version: | | | |
| Resolution: | Invalid | | |
| Description | | | |
| Hi, I have a question about the subscribe 2 plug-in. Is there really no way that a user can control the frequency of the emails they receive (all posts, digest once daily, digest once weekly, etc.)? I understand that the admin controls the frequency of the emails in this plug-in. I do have Jet Pack set up and there is a subscription tool that the user can control, except there the user cannot select the categories they want to receive... Is there any way to do both, to have the user control frequency and blog categories they want to receive? Secondly, any ideas about how it might be possible to post to a commons blog via email? If that is possible, is it then possible to post to a specific category via email on a commons blog? thanks, Mark (Social Media Fellow, Anthropology) | | | |

History

#1 - 2012-10-02 19:19 - Etienne Massip

- Status changed from New to Closed

- Resolution set to Invalid

Please don't use this tracker for plugin issues and contact the author or post in Plugins forum.

#2 - 2012-10-02 19:41 - Mark Webb

Hi,

Sorry if this is misplaced, but I was advised by Chris Caruso (who is heading our team of social media fellows) that this was the appropriate forum to direct questions about wordpress blogs. He said you all had encouraged to send questions like this via redmine.

best,
Mark