Description I really like Redmine, and we are still evaluating whether or not to use it. But there is one very annoying thing, especially for new users, having a tab to submit a New Issue is not what is normally expected.  It would be very nice to have a way to invoke a new issue from other places, especially from the Issues view.  Thank you.

The cross project view could be one place.

But the other place is the per-project view of issues. See screen shot.

Thank you.
