Description At the moment the issue summary view (http://www.redmine.org/projects/redmine/issues/report) only allows to see issues of this project but not for the subprojects. In our case we want to have total stats for all project of all division of a resort, so we need such parent level reporting. I tried to configure a filter which alls the table view of issues in subproject we want to be reported in summary, but the summary still shows no issues for subprojects.

And #2529 ? Which almost makes for an elapsed span of 10,000 issues? Impressive!
When did the Redmine issue count start to take off like this?
