| Hi,                                                                                                         |         |                          |           |
| I am running Redmine 2.2.3 on a linux box. While i try to upgrade to 2.2.4 from 2.2.3, i have this :        |         |                          |           |
| <pre>myhost:/srv/www/vhosts/redmine-2.2 # svn update svn: Could not open the requested SVN filesystem</pre> |         |                          |           |
| I always use this command without any problem.                                                              |         |                          |           |
| Any help ?                                                                                                  |         |                          |           |
| Tx,Patrice                                                                                              |         |                          |           |
