Description

Hi,

when browsing any repository it is quite annoying that the history is shown when clicking on a file name.

My suggestion (Report last commit for files and directories -> enabled):

- Show the file's content when clicking on its name.
- Show the file history when clicking on its revision id.

Report last commit for files and directories -> disabled:

- Just show the content when clicking on its name.

I think the content of the files is much more important when browsing a repository than the history. The history can be shown by clicking on "history", or -- as I have suggested -- by clicking on the ID link.
