

Redmine - Patch #14929

Project completion on gantt is wrong

Description
The project completion shown on the chart gantt (implemented in Project#completed_percent) is kind of broken:
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• it doesn't take issues without target version into account• it does a simple average of all versions completions, whereas it should do a weighted calculation based on issue progress/estimate, just like it is done for versions completion.
This is not that hard to fix but that would make the gantt a bit more slow. So the question is: do we keep project completion display on the gantt?
