

Redmine - Feature #1548

bookmarks of wiki pages

2008-06-30 10:36 - clawfrown clawfrown

Status:	New	Start date:	2008-06-30
Priority:	Normal	Due date:
Assignee:		% Done:	0%
Category:	Wiki	Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:
Resolution:

Description

It might be very convenient to have kind of bookmarks on wiki pages.
I suppose it's possible to make them through Watch/Unwatch functionality.
The same button over the wiki page as it is over any ticket.
All the watched bookmarks of a user can be listed in sidebar and be visible only for current user.

p.s.
I can try to make a patch if somebody could have said me where this Watch functionality is located in all of redmine files..

History

#1 - 2008-06-30 17:13 - Carl Nygard

Why can't you just bookmark what you want in your browser?

#2 - 2008-06-30 20:27 - clawfrown clawfrown

Carl Nygard wrote:

Why can't you just bookmark what you want in your browser?

Well.. It might be a solution.. But if the person access the site from different browsers, places?
If somebody doesn't use browser bookmarks?
I consider as redmine is a great all-in-one thing, it must have this great all-in-one feature!
It's all about convenience, time and efficiency of work.. And that costs much, I believe..
Moreover, what for the sidebar on wiki pages exists? It simply takes space..