Description

On www.redmine.org if you go to the activity tab the messages option is unselected by default. If you select it and hit reply then you can see recent activity in the forums. When you navigate away from activity tab and then go back the messages option is again unselected and you have to reapply to see that activity. It would be nice if it would remember your selection, if the admin could choose to have it selected by default or both.

If what I am seeing is not expected behaviour, then this is a bug and I am on firefox 3.0 on Kubuntu.

Thanks.

I too would really appreciate this one fixed. In my case it's Wiki edits I'd like to be able to see by default.

It doesn't appear to be browser-specific. Same behaviour in Safari and Camino on a Mac and Chrome on windows.

- Target version set to 3.2.0

This is a long awaited feature by many users (please see "Related issues").
I think it would be better to include in 3.2.0.

Feature added in r14678. I've made a few changes to the patch so that the preference gets updated only when the user changes the scope by hitting the Apply bouton. And tests added.
