Description
Could it be made possible to change issue relations in the same commit as other changes to an issue, e.g. together with adding notes to an issue or changing the issue status?
This would have some benefits:
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• relations to other issues could be added while creating a new issue• notes about the issue relation change could be added to the issue at the same time• minimizes e-mail notification spam, as multiple changes would be bundled in one update
