

Redmine - Feature #17312

When changing the project during issue creation, the already entered content should not be lost

2014-06-26 10:21 - Kevin Palm

Status: New	Start date:
Priority: Normal	Due date:
Assignee:	% Done: 0%
Category: Issues	Estimated time: 0.00 hour
Target version:
Resolution:
Description To reproduce, create a new issue and enter subject and description At this point you realize that the wrong project was selected > You change the project using the jump box -> You are in the new issue dialog of the new selected project, but all entered content is lost now... It would be nice if all entered information would be taken be kept (if possible for new selected project)	