Description I want to move a lot of issues from one project to another (see #5837 ). I have to do this one-by-one since the issue list's context menu does not show the Project field.

The context menu does not, however if you click "Edit" in the context menu with multiple issues selected (Bulk edit selected issues) you can change the project they belong to.

Michael is correct, this is already possible using bulk edit.
Closing.

Ok. Good to have that documented here.

user want to merge one project to another.it means one of them is organization A, another is organization B.
when organization A combine with organization B, their issue must be mixed,not delete.
it never means one is sub project.
