

Redmine - Feature #1767

Make spent time - & project custom fields configurable/switchable per project

Category:	Custom fields	Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:	Candidate for next major release
Resolution:
Description It would be nice if it becomes possible to configure/switch the custom-fields of the types timelog (spent time) and project per project equal to the functionality implemented for custom-fields of the type issue. Though it may not be logical to do this per project it can be very usefull for multi-purpose projects. Example regarding a fictional project custom-field of the type list with the name "Fork" (which should indicate if this project is a fork (for what it means)). Now I want that project custom-field only to show-up on projects that actually are development-projects, not on any other projects (e.g. a project "Web-Service Management"). In such an environment it would be great if the project custom-field can be switched-off manually for all other projects except the specific development-projects. Such an example can be given for the timelog custom-fields also...

Some of my colleagues and I just independently noticed this and also thought it was strange that custom fields can be configured per-project for Issues but not for the other categories. I'm going to look into fixing this.
