

Redmine - Feature #19662

Adding members without leaving issue editor

2015-04-19 22:36 - Anders Thomsen

Status:	New	Start date:
Priority:	Normal	Due date:
Assignee:		% Done:	0%
Category:	Project settings	Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:
Resolution:

Description

When creating a new issue it should be possible to show the members window in a modal box without leaving the issue editor.

Use case:
I'm writing an issue. Just finished writing a long description. Then on to filling in "assigned to" and custom fields of user type only to find that the needed person is not added as a member.

Currently I have to either

- discard the issue, go to members and add a person and then create the issue again.
- save the issue, go to members and add a person and then go back and edit the issue. This adds an unnecessary journal and possibly sends emails to watchers.