Description We have been using redmine for a while and the ability to have custom fields in projects come really in-hand, but when managing multiple projects we would like to have the ability to set a workflow to Project Status just as we can for issues. Use case: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. A specific role has the permission to create the project</li><li>2. Other specific roles have the ability to change the status to "Active" or "Planning" or to "Closed"</li><li>3. Specific roles would have permission to set custom fields according to the workflow (only some roles can set the project budget, some others can set end date, etc.)</li></ol> This would give redmine a very good flexibility for managing multiple projects in their own process.
