Description
When I follow e.g. the link #4806#note-9, the issue page opens without any indication where the linked note is: The web browser cannot scroll it to the top, because it is one of the last notes. It would be very helpful to have the linked note visually emphasized in this case, e.g. by using a lightly colored background.

I am sure this feature can improve UX. Discourse (open source discussion board software) has similar feature. You can try highlight feature of Discourse by clicking <https://meta.discourse.org/t/educate-users-about-paragraphs/65220/9>.

The patch from Mizuki Ishikawa looks good to me but I think it is safer to change the patch as follows:

+1 Nice improvement!

#5 - 2017-06-28 09:31 - Go MAEDA

- File highlight_the_linked_note-v2.patch added

I slightly changed the patch. The new patch checks if the format of the fragment identifier is "#change-nnn" or "#note-nnn".

#6 - 2017-06-29 04:56 - Mizuki ISHIKAWA

- File highlight_the_linked_note-v3.patch added

Updated my patch. Replaced a color value with a CSS class in the view.
