Description

After updating to redmine 3.3.0 (tagged) the menu tabs appear broken in Chrome 51.0.2704.103 m. The tabs all appear as white on white, the new '+' button is only showing one menu option. Below is redmine info:

Environment:

```
Redmine version      3.3.0.stable.15581
Ruby version         2.2.0-p0 (2014-12-25) [armv7l-linux-eabi]
Rails version        4.2.6
Environment          production
Database adapter     Mysql2

SCM:

Subversion           1.8.10
Git                  1.9.1
Filesystem
```

Redmine plugins:

a_common_libs        1.1.5
redmine_agile         1.4.0
redmine_assign_via_commit 0.0.5
redmine_auto_watch   1.0.0
redmine_issue_detailed_tabs_time 0.1.0
redmine_local_avatars 1.0.0
redmine_login_audit  0.1.1
redmine_mentions     0.0.1
redmine_theme_changer 0.2.0

The only plugin that I have installed that adds a tab to the menu is redmine_agile plugin and I have already tried disabling that plugin, but did not see a change (aside from the one missing tab).

I cannot reproduce on my CentOS7.

$ rpm -q google-chrome-stable
google-chrome-stable-51.0.2704.103-1.x86_64

Vanilla Redmine 3.3.0.

I looked at the stylesheets and found that for some reason the a_common_libs plugin had it's own application.css that was overwriting the colour. I removed that plugin and it solved the issue.
