Description

I had a public page on my wiki which I moved to a private project. Web spiders have cached the url and are trying to hit the pages. Instead of getting 404 errors though, they are throwing NoMethodErrors on a nil object. It looks like several actions in the WikiController are not checking for nil object before calling methods on them

It's ok. I assign issues to myself that I'm confident that I can handle, feel free to steal them from me.
