You might already know, but you can use Gemfile.local.

No, you can use Gemfile.local as this.

group :development do gem "better_errors"
  gem "binding_of_caller"
end

Yes, you can create a file named Gemfile.local at the root of your Redmine directory for adding your favorite gems. It will be loaded automatically.

Thanks I just wanted to propose adding those 2 gems to raise awareness for new developers.

Anyway they don't bring something special, just a bit more informal view.
