Display user logins on profiles (#26127).

Patch by Marius BALTEANU.

History

#1 - 2017-06-09 08:44 - Mischa The Evil

- Related to Feature #4179: Link to user in wiki syntax added

#2 - 2017-07-01 07:15 - Go MAEDA

- Target version set to 4.1.0

Let's include this feature in 3.5.0 if there aren't any noticeable objection.

#3 - 2017-07-01 17:52 - Marius BĂLTEANU

- File 4179_show_login_attribute_in_user_show_v3.patch added

Attached the patch from #4179. Also, I find this feature quite important for a mention feature (#13919) because without this, it'll be necessary to use the user id (which is not so friendly from my point of view).

Regarding user's feedback, in #4179, there are no noticeable objections. Only pro opinions, from Jan from Planio, André Lozovey, me, Go Maeda and Mischa The Evil (not 100% sure).

Well, I am quite neutral about this proposal. I do think however that this is indeed a requirement for a user-friendly implementation of a mention feature like #13919.

#5 - 2017-07-31 05:49 - Toshi MARUYAMA

- Related to Feature #13919: Mention user on issues and wiki pages using @user with autocomplete added

#6 - 2018-06-25 02:04 - Anonymous

I would like to see this feature in my Redmine.

- Related to Feature #17629: Make users with same name distinguishable when adding watchers added

#8 - 2018-12-10 14:05 - Go MAEDA

Since there was no disagreement with the feature over the past year and a half, I think we can commit this change.
