Description

Redmine should allow users to define project's default Categories (so, the user does not have to be creating the default ones for every project)... For example, i use the Category Field for specifying that the users is a Data, Design, Functionality, Usability, or any other needed for the project.. so, if i would like not to have be type it every time i create a project or sub, i want to be able to define it in an administrative module.

Thanks in Advance.
