Resolution:		Affected version:	3.2.6

Description

When I try to change an issue status, with right-click, the views asks me to set a custom field and does not allow me to save the issue and the view also does not show the set custom field as per workflow.

But in the same scenario, when I left-click on the issue and then try to edit the call it asks me to set the custom field as per workflow with the view showing me to set the custom field.

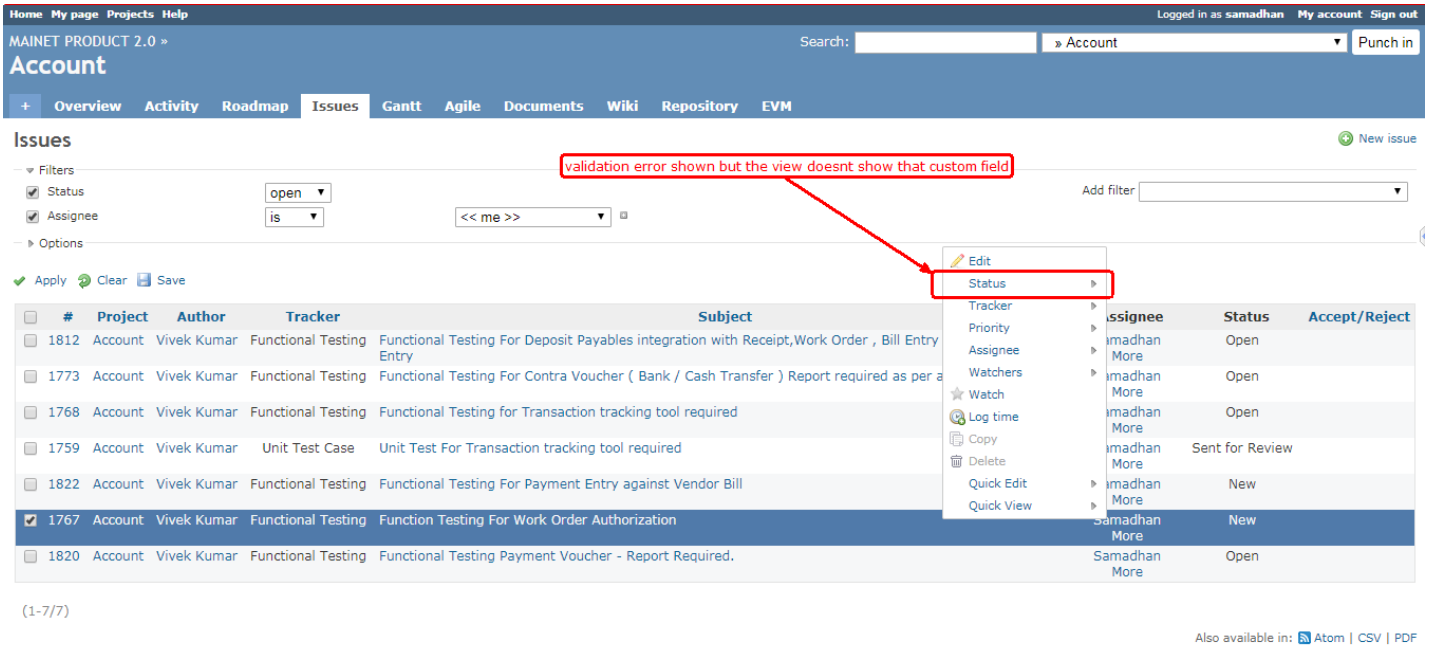
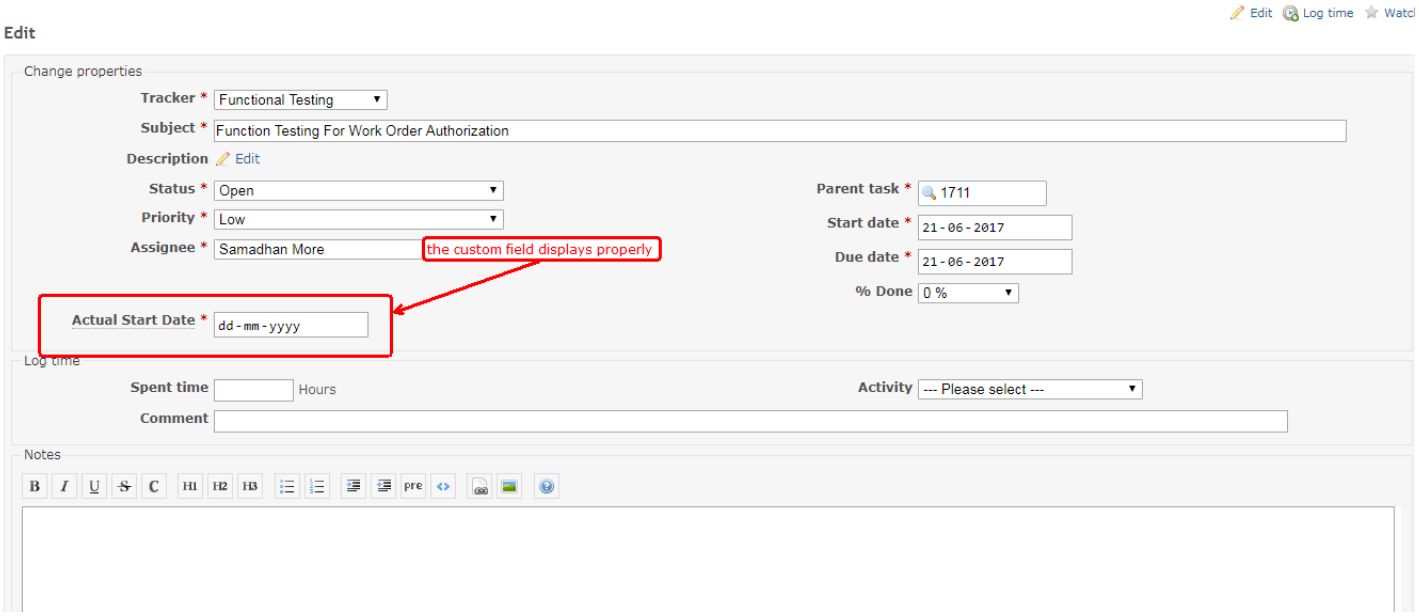
When I try right click from the issues page, on the issue, I get a validation error for the custom field(Actual Start Date) to be set but the view doesn't show the custom field.



But when i click on 'Edit' and then try to change the status the same custom field is shown and the field can be set.



I am currently using the redmine 3.2.6 but this problem am facing since earlier version like 3.1.x.
