Description
Inspired by #20063-3 I thought that it would be nice to have the option to change the format of issue title displaying when they get rendered as a link. That could be used in the activity view as well or possibly any other location. In the end what I would like to have is the option to render the tracker combined with the status, so that it gets more human readable. For example: <pre>Unseen feature #123: bla Open Bug #234: bla Closed Bug #456: bla Implemented Feature #567: bla</pre> As you see the status is the first word, the tracker the second. However, I think in other languages the order should be different, so it needs to be made configurable (or it is hard-coded somewhere). Sure, the status have to be combinable. Also the Tracker must not be a plural word. 'Needs feedback Features' sounds a bit cumbersome, but it's still okay. If it would be configurable you could still achieve something like issue-link-sample.png
