Description

If we choose to moderated account creation (by selecting the 'Manual account activation' item menu in Authentication pane, the admins received an email with the appropriate link to activate this new account.

It would be very useful if, once the account is activated, an e-mail is automatically sent to the registrant in order to inform it of its activation.

+1

We have the exact same need. Right now our users do not know when or if their account has been activated.
