would be great (at least would meet my requirements ;-) if it is possible to create different workflows, which can be assigned individually to trackers - what do you think?

Hi,
I'm not sure to understand your needs.
Workflow transition are currently defined per tracker and per role. So each tracker can have its own workflow.
Does your need is to create workflows and then assign them to trackers ?

My idea was that you can create a different set of issues statuses that can be assigned to a certain tracker.

I think currently you can achieve the samce by adding additional issue statuses which are not used in all trackers, means you need to unselect them for the transitions.

My suggestion will make it easier to overview (at least I think so ;-)), but it may add too much complexity to redmine ?

ok, that's not what i understood.
you can indeed achieve it the way you mentioned.
for the moment, i think it's not a priority. maybe later :-)
