Description

The shade of blue used for links can look a lot like the shade of gray used for other text, especially when the text is small. A subtle underline would help.

Well i think this could be closed?
If you want, you can define additional styles in a own theme with a application.css. :-)

#2 - 2013-03-18 13:04 - Filou Centrinov

I can distinguish links without any difficulties. May it was already changed with the actual redmine version, that what you mean? According to Daniel Felix, you can also modify your theme easily.

I suggest to close this issue. Any regressions?
